

1 Just as well

Maybe I'm blind for what you see maybe I'm weak maybe you're strong maybe I can't make up my mind to do anything wrong even if that's what it takes, so

I'm glad that I didn't stay any longer I'm glad that I didn't say a word You might just as well have noticed I might just as well have fallen in love

Maybe I'm deaf for what you say maybe I'm wrong maybe you're right maybe I just can't understand the world ain't black and white there's lots of grey in between

Julia

You're doing your best to please me your smile's your helping hand you're telling me things I love to hear and I'd like to understand what's going on in your mind, behind your lovely eyes is there more than just a showroom for collected alibies are you trying to make things happen yourself before too long or is it someone else's tunes and you're trying to sing along

Julia, you'll never get me nowhere, you won't make me cry
there's something 'bout the way you make me feel and that is why with everything I do I'll be there for you

All the guys in your town, they're crazy about you you could easily have anyone, it's up to you so say, what are you doing with a fool like me when what you can rely on's clear for anyone to see Are you sure you'll make things happen
yourself before too long Or is it someone else's path you're trying to walk along

Julia, you'll never get me nowhere,
you won't make me cry
there's something 'bout the way you make me feel and that is why
with everything I do I'll be there for you

Song w/o a Title

Still you're trying to be honest still you're trying to be true still they're gonna tap your shoulder with soft hands and say „it will all be up to you“

They pretend to be your friends and brothers they are so benevolent still there's no time left to come around and so the story's got an end

They're gonna say they like your language but they may say it's not their style sometimes when they're not too tired from work at home at night they like to listen for a while

You will find that you can satisfy them with stories they already heard if you're tryin' to say things you mean to say they won't understand a word

They all know your job's a hard one they all like the way you move they'll be standing by your side because still we are all one nation under the groove

You'll find it's preferable to have a try in your own way, on your own No matter what they say, they can't help you, anyway You'll end up being alone

Next to an Angel

She can't see the future she can't read nothing from your palm she's well busy with what helps to keep her going on and with what helps to keep her calm

She would pour a coffee and stop her work for just a while among the thing that she'd been thinking of the whole day through something must have made her smile

How dare I feel I'm still the same could I be dreaming of falling into deep warm sleep next to an angel

I auditioned for her play and I was chosen by fortune
She is still in doubt whether I can play the part I might be substituted soon

I'm tryin' to take it like it is without fear of losing all things may come to those who play instead of talking endlessly
how dare I feel I'm still the same could I be dreamin'
of fallin' into deep warm sleep Next to an angel

Things You Say

The things you say, I know that you believe in things you say smiling to me and I'm so embarrassed to see the things you say still sound so beautiful to me

Looks like a smile but you only move your face say, did you ever go further than trying to fool yourself with what you say, with what you're doing to me

So let's get lost, I'll take you along with me You might dare walking my footsteps, I'm fool enough, honest, all care all ears to you, all ears to all the things you say

We could be friends, endangered by space and time we could shout out all our secrets and never shed a tear we could refind ourselves in all the things you say

Do you enjoy dreamin' the dreams we shared we could go on doing nothing but waste our precious time doing what's ours playing the games we like to play

She is ...

Whenever I go crazy she's the one to pull me up again when all my mind goes tumblin' down she'll pick me up and help me stand tell her how hard the way will be she will be waiting patiently she's all I hoped for, all I've known the only dream to call my own

She'll spend her extra time and go to all the places that I go she'll watch out for me carefully she'll smile and never tell me „NO“ to tell the truth, she'll never be less than my favourite dream to me

She's all I hoped for, all I've known

no matter what the truth may be she'll never stop believin' in me

She's all I hoped for, all I've known,

and so I hope someday there'll be a chance to meet her, finally Whatever you may say wherever you may go you can turn you will find me behind there for you

If you don't know what's up if you should worry time after time you will find there will be you and I

Some place to find yourself, be yourself
where to turn when you're out on your own

There'll be Smiles there will even be laughter there'll be tears when we cry cry tears of joy there'll be friends, anyway there'll be envy but I know that you'll find in the end you'll be right there will be truth for somebody true colors like you

If you don't understand if you should wonder why ask me why, question why there's no reason to hide if you feel down and out you need somebody else there's an arm 'round your shoulder to say you're alright

Some place to find yourself, be yourself
Where to turn when you're out on your own

You may say I'm a dreamer but I'm not the only one You might feel like you're losing somebody
but I know that you'll find in the end you'll be right

Straight from your Heart

You may sometimes feel like you're to blame for being caught in traps that are always the same like there's really nothing you can do and that's the way things go

You may feel like you're down and you're losing it all You may feel your back is against the wall don't you worry, you will be better acting
Straight from your Heart

It's not always easy
(and) it's not always easy to see (it's) still gonna get you catch you eventually

But if you know what you know and you know that it's true won't you let them sow their doubts in you don't you worry, you will be better acting
Straight from your heart

You're the one that you should believe in no matter how damn white your skin just remember, you will be better acting Straight from your Heart

Not like This

Lately I've been told I can't complain All my efforts may sometimes be in vain
It's always been this way
But for sure that won't drive me insane

And if that's the way that it should be Tell me that they're lying
And I'll surrender to the thought that we'll be blessed
Tell me that we're never really gonna give up trying Tell me that we'll never end up
Like this

After all that I grew up to know Here I stand, afraid to let it show
It's always been this way
It will last forever and a day

But if that's the way that it should be
Tell me that they're lying
Tell me that we're never really gonna give up trying
Like this

I'm Sorry, too

This is where we've come from It's not where we are going
This is what you'd like to learn But it's not what you'll be knowing

Some of the things you'd like to say before you go Will always make you feel you're sorry, and you know

I'm sorry, too

Nothing left to talk about, nothing to agree Nothing to get used to, because I refuse to be One of those who just keep walking by your side
And I refuse to join the things you've got to hide

There's a kind of truth in the things that you say
But deep inside there's a wish that I might catch you lying
There's a kind of truth in the things that you say
But I will still be alright and you won't catch me crying

Nothing left to celebrate, no reason to be proud You know we won't stay, although we're not steppin' out Some of the things you'd like to say before you leave Will always make you feel you're sorry and believe

There's a kind of truth in the things that you say
But deep inside there's a wish that I might catch you lying
There's a kind of truth in the things that you say
But I will still be alright and you won't catch me crying
